your key to excellence

The Association for Behavior Analysis International contributes to the well-being of society by developing, enhancing, and supporting the growth and vitality of the science of behavior analysis through research, education, and practice.

Founded in 1974, ABAI has become the hub of the behavior analysis community, with more than 6,300 members worldwide, and affiliated chapter membership of more than 20,000.

ABAI's services to the field include events, online learning, and publication of peer-reviewed journals that promote dissemination of the science. Services to members include job placement and support of more than three dozen special interest groups and 87 affiliated chapters worldwide.

Learning Center

The ABAI Learning Center offers online access to popular sessions from ABAI events and provides opportunities to earn continuing education credits by viewing unique content from recent conferences.

Special Interest Groups

ABAI supports 37 special interest groups (SIGs) covering the scope of behavioral study and treatment, and welcomes applications from members interested in creating new groups in emerging areas of the field not yet served by such a group.

Jobs in Behavior Analysis

Members post thousands of job openings and résumés online annually, through our JobTarget job board, which has become an industry hub for employers and job seekers alike.

University Program Accreditation

ABAI sets standards for the accreditation of educational programs in behavior analysis at the bachelor's, master's, and doctoral level. These standards are designed to encourage and support exemplary training of behavior scientists and scientist-practitioners in the experimental and theoretical foundations of behavior analysis and in ethical and evidence-based practice.

Conferences

In 2014, ABAI will convene its 40th Annual Convention. Today, this event features the contributions of nearly 4,500 participants from more than 50 countries.

An annual autism conference convenes those treating or studying autism.

Special conference topics from our recent past include apps, games, and technology; theory and philosophy; and behavioral economics.

A biennial international conference promotes the science of behavior analysis to chapters and universities throughout the world. Recent host cities include Sydney, Beijing, and Oslo.

Publications

New for 2014, ABAI has partnered with Springer, an international publisher of scientific journals, to manage our publishing. Already we have refined the electronic interface for journal management, which has streamlined editorial review for editors, and speeded up publication for authors.

The Psychological Record

ABAI's newest journal has been around since 1937, and included seminal behaviorist B. F. Skinner on its original staff. It publishes empirical and conceptual articles related to behavior analysis, science, and theory.

The Behavior Analyst

The official publication of ABAI, this peer-reviewed journal features articles on theoretical, experimental, and applied topics in behavior analysis.

The Analysis of Verbal Behavior

This biannual publication contains experimental or theoretical papers in behavior analysis.

Behavior Analysis in Practice

Published twice a year, this peer-reviewed translational publication provides science-based information on best practices.

Inside Behavior Analysis

This triannual publication updates members on ABAI events, member activities, and other items of interest to the ABAI community.
